Airfare: approx. $1500

Other costs: (travel & medical insurance; personal expenses, airport transfers etc.)

PREREQUISITES:

Students must have completed 30 credit units of coursework including at least 6 credits of ARCH/ANTH, CMRS, or HIST courses. Or with permission of the instructor. Students must also have a minimum of 30 cu and an overall average no lower than 65%.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Turin, Italy is where students and the instructor will be traveling to and will be introduced to the field of museology while working in one of the most prestigious museums dedicated to ancient Egyptian artefacts, the Museo Egizio. Students will visit additional museums, archaeological sites, and conservation labs, in order to learn about different museum professions, consider the ethics of museum collections and the display of human remains, and work with objects that are 1000s of years old.

COURSE OVERVIEW

Students will receive lectures and demonstrations from many experts, learning not only about objects and display choices, but also about the different professions connected to the museum in order to consider diverse career opportunities. Field trips to other museums, cultural heritage sites, archaeological sites, and conservation laboratories provide further opportunities to understand the many different means of communicating space and object histories to diverse audiences, and ways to participate in the museum field. Throughout these different approaches, students will be asked to consider the ethics of collecting and displaying objects and human remains, particularly taking into consideration a European, colonial viewpoint.
