I want to express a very warm welcome to the graduates, families and friends who join us today. Convocation is the University’s most important ceremony, for it is here that we celebrate the accomplishments of our students and the contributions of their loved ones to their success. You should be proud of this day, and of the commitment and sacrifice that it represents.

We at the University of Saskatchewan salute you - our graduates - and we extend to you our very best wishes for the future. We hope that you will stay in touch with us through our University of Saskatchewan alumni family, and that we will have the opportunity to welcome you ‘home’ to our campus many times in the years ahead.

Warmest congratulations!

President Peter MacKinnon
The word “Convocation” arises from the Latin “con” meaning “together,” and “vocare” meaning “to call.” Our Convocation ceremony is a calling together of the new graduates of the University of Saskatchewan, symbolizing the historical practice of calling together all former graduates. In current times, the major functions of Convocation are the election of representatives to University governing bodies and the admission of candidates to degrees. The Chancellor, elected by Convocation as its Chair, is the highest official and spokesperson of the University.

The Convocation ceremony marks the transition from the role of student to the holder of a degree with its accompanying rights and privileges. Candidates for degrees, known as graduands, having completed the requirements of a course of study, are recommended by college faculties and the University Council to receive degrees from the University of Saskatchewan.

The ceremony, solemnized in the presence of the University community and family and friends of the graduands, consists of three parts: a procession marking the leaving of the old status and entering the new; the President’s statement to the graduands, the Secretary’s petition and the Chancellor’s consent for their admission; followed by individual presentation by their Dean and admission by the Chancellor to the degrees to which they are entitled. As graduates are admitted to their degrees, a graduation hood, which has a colour symbolizing a particular degree, is placed over each graduate’s head. A banner displaying the University crest is hung above the stage, as a symbol of the University’s authority to confer degrees.

Following the conferring of degrees and acceptance of each graduate as a member of Convocation, a reception is held — a celebration on the occasion of the formal transition from the role of learner to the role of producer and contributor in the field of the graduate’s choice.

We honour and welcome this year’s graduates!
Tom Molloy was born and raised in Saskatoon. He attended St. Thomas More College and later the College of Law, both at the University of Saskatchewan. He received his B.A. and LL.B. in 1964. He has practiced law in Saskatoon since graduation and is with the MacPherson Leslie & Tyerman's Saskatoon office. He has represented the Government of Canada as the Chief Federal Negotiator in the successfully concluded treaties in Nunavut and with the Nisga’a in British Columbia and an Agreement in Principle with the Sechelt Indian Band. He presently represents Canada in treaty negotiations in British Columbia, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Nunavut. Mr. Molloy has been described as “Canada’s most expert treaty negotiator.”

Mr. Molloy recently authored a book The World is our Witness: The Historic Journey of the Nisga’a into Canada. The book has won two Saskatchewan Book Awards, The Brenda MacDonald Riches First Book Award and the Non-fiction Award which was sponsored by the University of Saskatchewan.

For his work in the community he has received a number of awards including the City of Saskatoon Certificate of Distinguished Community Service; Rotary Golden Wheels Award for Excellence, Saskatoon B’nai Brith “Proud of You Award” and the Head of the Public Service Award for Excellence in Service Delivery.

In 1996 he was made an officer of the Order of Canada, with a citation that reads: He is widely known for his role as Chief Negotiator for the Government of Canada in the Nunavut Land Claim Agreement. His integrity, commitment to a just settlement and personable rapport have also been valuable in his leadership of numerous cultural, educational and charitable groups, not only in Saskatchewan but also nationally, including the Meewasin Foundation and PRIDE Canada.

The University of Saskatchewan Alumni Association awarded him the 2000 Alumni Honour Award in recognition of receiving notable acclaim for professional achievements, which in turn has enhanced the image of the University of Saskatchewan and its alumni. In January 2001, The Canadian Bar Association Saskatchewan Branch named him as the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award.
Honorary Doctor of Laws

Catriona Le May Doan

Catriona Le May Doan was born and educated in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. She started what has become an impressive career in speed skating at the early age of nine. Ms. Le May Doan became a hero for many Canadians in the 2002 Winter Olympic Games where she was awarded a gold medal in the 500 meter speed skating sprint event. Ms. Le May Doan became the first Canadian individual to win back-to-back gold medals in the same sport as she had previously won the gold medal at the 1998 Olympic Winter Games in Nagano, Japan. In 1998, she also captured the bronze medal in the 1000 meter race.

Other accomplishments:

- Carried the Canadian flag at the opening ceremonies of the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.
- Currently the 500 meter World Record holder (set a time of 37.22 in Calgary in November 2001).
- Inducted into the Alberta Sports Hall of Fame in May 2001.
- Carried the Maple Leaf for Canada at the closing ceremonies in Nagano, Japan at the 1998 Olympic Winter Games.
- Received the 2002 Lou Marsh Award as Canada’s Outstanding Athlete of the Year.

Ms. Le May Doan will be remembered for her victory lap at the 2002 Olympics in Salt Lake City where she proudly carried both a Canadian flag and the flag of Saskatchewan.

Ms. Le May Doan is a world-class athlete and an inspiring person. She works hard to be the best she can in sport and in life, and she excels. She is a dedicated, patriotic and deeply loyal individual who possesses an unassuming dignity. She has been an inspiration for many, is a popular motivational speaker, and has lent her celebrity status, personal charm and commitment to support several volunteer and charitable activities. Clearly, she has earned her place as a role model for the youth of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan and Canada.

Ms. Le May Doan is completely bilingual. She and her husband, Bart Doan, now live in Calgary, but Ms. Le May Doan keeps in touch with her Saskatchewan roots.
Alumni Award of Achievement

Louise Forsyth

Dr. Louise Forsyth has left her mark on the University of Saskatchewan. She was Dean of Graduate Studies & Research in the 1990s and is currently Professor Emerita in the Department of Women's & Gender Studies. She received the Distinguished Teacher Award in the Humanities and Fine Arts from the College of Arts and Science for 2002-2003. She was Co-Chair of the Women's Studies Research Unit for many years and has been Associate Member of the departments of Languages & Linguistics and Drama. She has been active in graduate studies in many interdisciplinary areas.

Dr. Forsyth has an international reputation for her research in Quebec literature, Canadian women's theatre, and feminist theory. She is the author of many scholarly articles and three edited books. She has recently served as President of the Humanities and Social Sciences Federation of Canada, during which time she actively lobbied for recognition of the vital contribution made to Canadian universities by the humanities, social sciences and fine arts, along with the need for appropriate funding support for them.

Before joining the U of S faculty in 1991, Dr. Forsyth was Chair of the Department of French, University of Western Ontario, where she also served as President of the Faculty Association, member of the University Senate and Board of Governors, and founding member of the Caucus on Women's Issues. She twice received the Augusta Stowe-Gullen Award from the Southwest Ontario Association for Learning Opportunities for Women and was recognized as a Woman of Distinction by the London Ontario YWCA in 1986.

Her nominators wrote: “In our opinion Louise Forsyth is a superb role-model for women and men alike. ... Louise's optimistic attitudes, her respect for human rights, her willingness to speak out on issues of importance to us all, and her record of success make her an outstanding candidate for the Alumni Award of Achievement.”

Another nominator writes, “Dr. Louise Forsyth is an outstanding example [from] a small cohort of academic individuals who have made outstanding, fundamentally world-changing contributions to their universities and wider communities with their careers. I would predict that when histories come to be written of Canadian universities over the last several decades, she will be celebrated as the most influential feminist faculty member and administrator of our time.”
Distinction in Extension and Public Service Award

Murray Scharf

The Award for Distinction in Extension and Public Service honours a faculty member who has made an outstanding effort to further the University's public service and extension mission. This year's recipient is Murray Scharf, Professor of Educational Administration and Director of the Saskatchewan Educational Leadership Unit (SELU).

Dr. Scharf has a long history of service to the teaching profession and to the public education system in this province, and much of Saskatchewan's public policy on education over the last several decades has been influenced by his work. He is widely respected among professional educational organizations across the globe for his leadership, research and community work.

A University of Saskatchewan Alumnus, Dr. Scharf earned his Ph.D. from the University of Alberta in 1967. He joined the University of Saskatchewan that same year, and served as Head of the Department of Educational Administration from 1982-1985 and as Dean of the College of Education from 1986-1996.

In 1974 Dr. Scharf completed what has come to be known as the Scharf Report on the Declining Rural Population and the Implications for Rural Education. Educational professionals and government utilized this report for many years as the authoritative statement on the condition of rural schools. A consequent 1991 report authored by Dr. Scharf dramatically influenced school system restructuring in Saskatchewan.

Dr. Scharf created the SELU in 1985. The Unit, now in its 18th year, has become a model for other provinces to follow. In his current role as Director, Dr. Scharf has spearheaded a number of valuable international training initiatives.

In 1992 Dr. Scharf initiated a focus on rural education among faculty, resulting in the creation of the Congress on Rural Education, which has been held annually for the past eight years and attracts educators and community leaders from across Canada.

During the course of his career at the University of Saskatchewan Dr. Scharf has delivered lectures on a wide variety of issues related to community and rural education. He is extremely well known for his lively, challenging and creative ideas on contemporary issues critical to Saskatchewan communities.

Dr. Scharf's dedication to public service is reflected through his ongoing involvement with a number of organizations. Most recently he has served as a member of the Inner City Pre-School Foundation, President of the Saskatoon Chapter of the United Services Institute, Chair of the Board of Governors of the Corps of Commissionaires and President of the Rotary Club of Saskatoon. Since 1989 he has also served as a member of the Board of Directors of the International Congress on Education for Teaching (an affiliate of UNESCO).

Dr. Scharf's career has been one in which extension and community service have been paramount, and he has been honoured with a number of prestigious awards from both local and international organizations.

The quality of education in the broader community has been substantively enhanced by Dr. Scharf's work, as has the reputation of the University of Saskatchewan. He is a very worthy recipient of this award.
The Distinguished Researcher Award recognizes a faculty member’s contribution to scholarship through the creation, expansion and critique of knowledge. The University has selected Dr. Reuben Mapleton of the Western College of Veterinary Medicine (WCVM) as the Fall 2003 recipient of this award.

Dr. Mapleton earned his Doctor of Veterinary Medicine (1967) at the University of Guelph. He achieved both his Master’s degree (1975) and Ph.D. (1977) in Endocrinology and Reproductive Physiology at the University of Wisconsin. He moved back to his native Saskatchewan in 1977 to accept an associate professorship in the Department of Clinical Studies at the WCVM.

He is a member of the Department of Large Animal Clinical Sciences at the U of S and has served as department head for three years. In addition to his research, he has provided clinical instruction concerning both cattle and companion animals in the veterinarian teaching hospital at the WCVM, which involves both routine and emergency clinical duties.

Dr. Mapleton is world renowned for his work in bovine embryo transfer, ovulation synchronization and superovulation. He has been instrumental in developing the embryo transfer industry in Canada and around the world. He is Past President of both the International Embryo Transfer Society and the Canadian Embryo Transfer Association, and continues to serve on their various committees. His embryo transfer protocols have become standard practice worldwide.

He patented a substance that replaces serum in culture and cryopreservation procedures used when transporting embryos. He also developed a drug to induce superovulation in cattle, as well as one of the first practical methods to synchronize estrus cycles for “artificial insemination by appointment” in cattle. These developments allow increased embryo production in superior animals and allow producers to preschedule embryo transfer and artificial insemination.

An acknowledged expert in reproductive endocrinology and physiology, Dr. Mapleton is much sought after as a speaker on the international stage. He has given over 150 invited lectures and conference presentations in North America, South America, Europe, Asia and Africa. He has contributed nearly 300 papers to published conference proceedings, and authored more than 100 refereed papers in scholarly journals.

He has brought over $5.75 million dollars in research funding to the U of S through grants from both federal and provincial governments, plus industry associations and private corporations.

An enthusiastic mentor, Dr. Mapleton transfers his knowledge and thirst for discovery through training more than 30 graduate students, both locally and from abroad, and he has served on numerous other graduate student advisory committees. He provides training on embryo transfer to practicing veterinarians, and has held over three dozen workshops over the past 25 years to teach the techniques to more than 200 veterinary professionals. His advice is regularly sought by producers, veterinarians and researchers, both at home in Canada and around the world.

Dr. Mapleton has set international standards for scientists and veterinarians. His work has led to viable embryo transfer technologies to help improve cattle genetics on every continent. His efforts and enthusiasm speak well, both for him and for the university. He is highly deserving of this award.
J. W. George Ivany Internationalization Award
Jim Handy

The J. W. George Ivany Internationalization Award was established to recognize a faculty or staff member's extraordinary contributions toward the internationalization of the University of Saskatchewan. The fall 2003 winner is Professor Jim Handy from the Department of History, College of Arts and Science.

Professor Handy obtained his B.A. and M.A. from the University of Waterloo, followed by his Ph.D. at the University of Toronto. He joined the University of Saskatchewan in 1986 as an Assistant Professor of History. Jim's research is explicitly interdisciplinary and cross-cultural. He works collaboratively with local organizations and universities throughout Central America on environmental history, indigenous movements, and international relations.

During his 17 years here, Jim Handy has been a champion of international initiatives and has made a significant contribution to the University's international profile. The list of Dr. Handy's contributions is long, but there are three achievements that deserve special mention. First, as the Coordinator of the International Studies program, he enhanced opportunities for students to work abroad, and helped build the program to become one of intense student interest.

Secondly, Professor Handy established the Guatemala Term Abroad program, which gives students a four-month opportunity to study in Guatemala and allows them to experience the interplay of domestic and global processes in this Latin American country.

Thirdly, Professor Handy saw the need for a University-wide mission statement on internationalization. He gathered together key individuals on campus to develop the statement, which was subsequently approved by the University Council in 2000. That mission statement has, in turn, had an impact on the content of President MacKinnon's Strategic Directions statement, the Enrolment Plan, and the Internationalization foundational document.

In addition to his University work, Dr. Handy served two terms as President of the Canadian Association for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (CALACS) from 1997-2001. CALACS is one of the largest area studies associations in Canada.

Jim's commitment to international and intercultural scholarship is widely recognized within the University and the international community. He is most deserving of this award.
Master Teacher Award

Alec Aitken

The Master Teacher Award was established to emphasize the importance of teaching at the University of Saskatchewan, to recognize and to honour those faculty members who excel in teaching. The Selection Committee has named Professor Alec Aitken of the Department of Geography to be the recipient of this prestigious award.

Professor Aitken earned his Bachelor of Science in Geography and Biology at Queen's University in 1980 and his Ph.D. at McMaster University in 1987, joining the Department of Geography at the U of S in 1994; he was promoted to Associate Professor the following year.

Dr. Aitken has a comprehensive knowledge of his discipline and has demonstrated excellence in research, publishing regularly in the leading journals in physical geography, geology, and earth sciences. More significantly for this award, Professor Aitken has demonstrated superior teaching at a variety of levels and to many groups. As measured by student evaluations, Alec is consistently assessed as the best professor in his department. An exhaustive evaluation by one of his peers concludes: “My teaching evaluation and review of course materials confirmed a clear sense I had gained in my conversations with students over the years – Professor Aitken is an excellent instructor with a great commitment both to his area of research and to teaching.”

“Professors like Alec are an asset to this university,” writes one of his students. Other students support this judgement in their written comments: “It has been a pleasure being in this class.” “I appreciated that the instructor would volunteer his time to take the class on field trips.” “It's nice to get a prof every once in a while who loves what he’s teaching.” “He gets excited about what he teaches which is rare lately.” “I give Dr. Aitken and the course top marks!” “He is the best professor the Geography Department has to offer, and one of the best I have ever had.” “It was refreshing to have a professor who displayed such dynamism while teaching.” Added to these commendations, students consistently call Alec's classes “important.” “This class was the best, most interesting class that I have ever taken.”

If this was all that Dr. Aitken had accomplished, he may be as deserving as a handful of other instructors on campus. The other educational activities he engages in set Alec apart, both on and off campus. He spearheaded the development of the Environmental Earth Sciences interdisciplinary program for students who wish to get a broad environmental sciences education, combining soil science, geology, and geography. He is one of the first Geography professors to develop a televised distance education course, in conjunction with the Extension Division. Off campus, two specific activities attest to Alec’s dedication and energy as a teacher. As part of the Innovators in the Schools program, he has made almost a hundred elementary school visits since 1993, teaching students about landscapes of the North, geology, paleontology, Inuit culture, and Saskatchewan geomorphology. Youngsters refer to Alec as “that guy with the booming voice who brings all those neat rocks and relates so well to us.” For the last four years, Alec has helped develop the Brightwater Science and Environmental Program for Grades 6 and 7 students in the Saskatoon Public School Division. On field trips, Alec shows these students how science works in the real world. Neither of these activities is in Alec's job description, but he clearly feels he has a duty to give back to the community the scientific knowledge he has acquired, making science come alive for the next generation.

Professor Alec Aitken has shown himself to be a superb teacher and an excellent emissary of his discipline, touching everyone he encounters with his passion for science. With the dedication he has displayed and the legacy he is building, the University of Saskatchewan is fortunate to have such a fine teacher on its staff. He is most deserving of this honour.
President’s Service Award

Danielle Fortosky

The 61 colleagues who supported her nomination say it’s Danielle Fortosky’s untiring dedication, resourcefulness and selflessness that have earned her the Fall 2003 University of Saskatchewan President’s Service Award.

So it is not surprising that the veteran of 29 years’ employment at the U of S, for the past 19 as Director of the Division of Media and Technology (DMT), confirms that her motivating force is service to others.

“Service, to me, is the highest order of human activity – to serve each other – and I always try to keep that in mind,” Fortosky says. As a result, ever since joining the Division of Audio Visual Services (DAVS) in 1974, she has diligently tried to serve faculty, staff, students and the University, and has succeeded tremendously.

Fortosky earned all three of her degrees from the U of S — a B.A. (English) in 1967, a B.Ed. (Communications) in 1974, and an M.Ed. (Communications) in 1983. She began her career teaching high school in Aberdeen (1967-68) and in Saskatoon at E.D. Feehan (1968-73). In 1974 she joined DAVS staff as Head of Television. In 1984 she was appointed DAVS Director and in 1985 she won a Commonwealth Relations Trust Bursary to study in the U.K., where she researched the relationship between the British Open University and the BBC.

At the U of S, Fortosky has happily taken on major challenges and led many initiatives, all the while impressing faculty, administrators and co-workers with her unassuming yet determined hard work. She has played a key role in projects including:

- From 1974-84, leading the production of more than 150 educational television programs.
- In 1981, launching the University’s educational satellite broadcasting initiative, one of the first in Canada.
- In the 1980s developing the University’s production and broadcasting agreement with the Saskatchewan Communications Network (SCN).
- Helping to lay the groundwork for the Technology Enhanced Learning (TEL) program, resulting in millions of dollars for development of online courses at Saskatchewan’s post-secondary institutions.
- Leading an initiative to upgrade more than 60 U of S lecture theatres, classrooms and labs with multimedia technologies.

Her nominator, Professor Emeritus of History, Michael Hayden, noted that despite budget cuts, Fortosky has succeeded in making DMT a first-class campus agency that is the envy of many Canadian universities. She and her staff have won 93 national and international awards for programs they have produced, averaging four per year since 1980. In 1985 Fortosky won the Saskatoon YWCA Woman of the Year Award and in 1996, Danielle and her husband Ted were awarded the Distinguished Alumna and Alumnus Award by St. Thomas More College. In 1998 she won a national Leadership Award from AMTEC (the Association for Media and Technology in Education in Canada).

Co-workers call her “an inspiration” whose dedication has brought honour to the U of S. For her part, Fortosky says the honour has been hers — to work with “the very talented faculty, staff and students here” for nearly 30 years. “It’s a world of ideas here, and it’s never boring.” She has loved working toward her goal of service — helping faculty communicate their research and their teaching to students.
President’s Medal
This medal is awarded to the undergraduate student with the highest academic standing at Fall Convocation.

Melissa Erin Gieni

Melissa Gieni spent her elementary school years in Outlook, Saskatchewan and attended junior high school and high school in North Battleford, Saskatchewan. During high school she was enrolled in the International Baccalaureate Program. Melissa graduates today with a Bachelor of Science Three-year Degree in Physiology with Great Distinction. Melissa is also the recipient of the 2003 Fall Convocation Three-year Degree Medal in the College of Arts and Science.

History of the University of Saskatchewan

The University of Saskatchewan was established by the University Act on April 3, 1907, only 18 months after Saskatchewan became a province.

The people of the province, as well as their government, were instrumental in shaping the new University. The provincial government requested all residents who were graduates of a Canadian or British university to form the first Convocation and elect the University's Senate. The Senate, in turn, elected five members to the first Board of Governors, while the province appointed three. In 1908, the Board selected Professor Walter Charles Murray, of Dalhousie University, as the first President.

Classes in Arts and Science began in September, 1909, in downtown Saskatoon. Construction of the campus began in 1910 and the first buildings were occupied in the fall of 1912. They included the College Building (Administration Building), Saskatchewan Hall (a student residence), residences for the Dean of Agriculture and the President, a laboratory for Engineering, and a number of farm buildings.

From the beginning, the University established an emphasis on research and teaching in a context of community service, and encouraged co-operation among departments and divisions in tackling common problems. The development of rust-resistant strains of wheat, for example, initiated by the University and federal and provincial research agencies, has been of untold value to the prairie economy.

In 1909, the University had 70 students and 5 professors, including the President. Today there are over 19,000 students studying in 13 colleges and 1 school. This is the only university in Canada with five health-science colleges and a major teaching hospital on the same campus. The University offers Spring and Summer Session, Evening Courses, Independent Studies courses and Distance Education as well as on-campus daytime courses.

The University of Saskatchewan overlooks the South Saskatchewan River from a 755 hectare site. The campus consists of 147 hectares with the remaining being a research park, the University farm and experimental plots.

Most early buildings on campus are Collegiate Gothic in style and are constructed in a local dolomite, popularly known as greystone. Subsequently constructed buildings also have greystone, as well as Tyndall stone (pre-cut slabs quarried in Tyndall, Manitoba), concrete, brick, glass and aggregate facings.

The University offers many points of interest for visitors: the Diefenbaker Canada Centre, Museum of Natural Sciences, Museum of Antiquities, Biology Museum, Pharmaceutical Museum, the Observatory, the Gordon Snelgrove Gallery, the St. Thomas More Gallery, Rugby Chapel, the Little Stone Schoolhouse, the Memorial Gates, Patterson Garden, and the Kenderdine Gallery.

You are invited to visit our campus at any time!
