A message from

President Peter MacKinnon

I want to express a very warm welcome to the graduates, families and friends who join us today. Convocation is the University's most important ceremony, for it is here that we celebrate the accomplishments of our students and the contributions of their loved ones to their success. You should be proud of this day, and of the commitment and sacrifice that it represents.

We at the University of Saskatchewan salute you—our graduates—and we extend to you our very best wishes for the future. We hope that you will stay in touch with us through our University of Saskatchewan alumni family, and that we will have the opportunity to welcome you 'home' to our campus many times in the years ahead.

Warmest congratulations!

University of Saskatchewan

2005 Spring Convocation

The word “Convocation” arises from the Latin “con” meaning “together,” and “vocare” meaning “to call.” Our Convocation ceremony is a calling together of the new graduates of the University of Saskatchewan, symbolizing the historical practice of calling together all former graduates. In current times, the major functions of Convocation are the election of representatives to University governing bodies and the admission of candidates to degrees. The Chancellor, elected by Convocation as its Chair, is the highest official and spokesperson of the University.

The Convocation ceremony marks the transition from the role of student to the holder of a degree with its accompanying rights and privileges. Candidates for degrees, known as graduands, having completed the requirements of a course of study, are recommended by college faculties and the University Council to receive degrees from the University of Saskatchewan.

The ceremony, solemnized in the presence of the University community and family and friends of the graduands, consists of three parts: a procession marking the leaving of the old status and entering the new; the President’s statement to the graduands, the Secretary’s petition and the Chancellor’s consent for their admission; followed by individual presentation by their Dean and admission by the Chancellor to the degrees to which they are entitled. As graduates are admitted to their degrees, a graduation hood, which has a colour symbolizing a particular degree, is placed over each graduate’s head. A banner displaying the University crest is hung above the stage, as a symbol of the University’s authority to confer degrees.

Following the conferring of degrees and acceptance of each graduate as a member of Convocation, a reception is held—a celebration on the occasion of the formal transition from the role of learner to the role of producer and contributor in the field of the graduate’s choice.

We honour and welcome this year’s graduates!

The Chancellor

W. T. (Tom) Molloy

Tom Molloy was born and raised in Saskatoon. He attended St. Thomas More College and later the College of Law, both at the University of Saskatchewan. He received his B.A. and LL.B. in 1964. He has practiced law in Saskatoon since graduation and is with MacPherson Leslie & Tyerman's Saskatoon office. He has represented the Government of Canada as the Chief Federal Negotiator in the successfully concluded treaties in Nunavut and with the Nisga'a in British Columbia and an Agreement in Principle with the Sechelt Indian Band. He presently represents Canada in treaty negotiations in British Columbia, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Nunavut. Mr. Molloy has been described as "Canada's most expert treaty negotiator."

Mr. Molloy recently authored a book The World is our Witness: The Historic Journey of the Nisga'a into Canada. The book has won two Saskatchewan Book Awards, The Brenda MacDonald Riches First Book Award and the Non-fiction Award which was sponsored by the University of Saskatchewan.

For his work in the community he has received a number of awards including the City of Saskatoon Certificate of Distinguished Community Service, Rotary Golden Wheels Award for Excellence, Saskatoon B'nai Brith "Proud of You Award" and the Head of the Public Service Award for Excellence in Service Delivery.

In 1996 he was made an Officer of the Order of Canada, with a citation that reads: He is widely known for his role as Chief Negotiator for the Government of Canada in the Nunavut Land Claim Agreement. His integrity, commitment to a just settlement and personable rapport have also been valuable in his leadership of numerous cultural, educational and charitable groups, not only in Saskatchewan but also nationally, including the Meewasin Foundation and PRIDE Canada.

The University of Saskatchewan Alumni Association awarded him the 2000 Alumni Honour Award in recognition of receiving notable acclaim for professional achievements, which in turn has enhanced the image of the University of Saskatchewan and its alumni. In January 2001, The Canadian Bar Association Saskatchewan Branch named him as the recipient of the Distinguished Service Award.

History of the University of Saskatchewan

The University of Saskatchewan was established by the University Act on April 3, 1907, only 18 months after Saskatchewan became a province.

The people of the province, as well as their government, were instrumental in shaping the new University. The provincial government requested all residents who were graduates of a Canadian or British university to form the first Convocation and elect the University's Senate. The Senate, in turn, elected five members to the first Board of Governors, while the province appointed three. In 1908, the Board selected Professor Walter Charles Murray, of Dalhousie University, as the first President.

Classes in Arts and Science began in September, 1909, in downtown Saskatoon. Construction of the campus began in 1910 and the first buildings were occupied in the fall of 1912. They included the College Building (Administration Building), Saskatchewan Hall (a student residence), residences for the Dean of Agriculture and the President, a laboratory for Engineering and a number of farm buildings.

From the beginning, the University established an emphasis on research and teaching in a context of community service, and encouraged co-operation among departments and divisions in tackling common problems. The development of rust-resistant strains of wheat, for example, initiated by the University and federal and provincial research agencies, has been of untold value to the prairie economy.

In 1909, the University had 70 students and five professors, including the President. Today there are over 19,000 students studying in 13 colleges and one school. This is the only university in Canada with five health-science colleges and a major teaching hospital on the same campus. The University offers Spring & Summer terms, evening courses, Independent Studies courses and distance education as well as on-campus daytime courses.

The University of Saskatchewan overlooks the South Saskatchewan River from a 755 hectare site. The campus itself is 147 hectares; a research park, the University farm and experimental plots make up the remainder.

Most early buildings on campus are Collegiate Gothic in style and are constructed in a local dolomite, popularly known as greystone. Subsequently constructed buildings also have greystone, as well as Tyndall stone (pre-cut slabs quarried in Tyndall, Manitoba), concrete, brick, glass and aggregate facings.

The University offers many points of interest for visitors: the Diefenbaker Canada Centre, Museum of Natural Sciences, Museum of Antiquities, Biology Museum, Pharmaceutical Museum, the Observatory, the Gordon Snelgrove Gallery, the St. Thomas More Gallery, Rugby Chapel, the Little Stone Schoolhouse, the Memorial Gates, Patterson Garden and the Kenderdine Gallery.

You are invited to visit our campus at any time!

Honorary Doctor of Letters

Allan Fotheringham

A native of Hearne, Saskatchewan, Mr. Fotheringham has been a columnist for the better part of his nearly half century in journalism. His first job was as a journalist at the Vancouver Sun, in 1954, after completion of a B.A. in English and Political Science, UBC. He later settled in on Fleet Street for two years with Reuters and Canada News but returned in 1959 to become an editorial writer and columnist for the Vancouver Sun. Before long he was making a name for himself not only in British Columbia but nationally when his column was syndicated across the country. He later worked as a columnist for Southam News, The Financial Post, The Globe and Mail and Sun Media.

Well known to most Canadians, he occupied the prestigious “back page” of Maclean’s for more than a quarter century creating the reverse-reading or “back page first” phenomenon. During the Reagan and Bush administrations, Southam News assigned “Dr. Foth”, then its national columnist based in Ottawa, to a five-year stint in Washington, D.C., which allowed his razor-sharp political observations to impact both sides of the border.

Between 1972 and 2001, he authored eight books all following political themes with Malice in Blunderland his first best seller. In addition to his many appearances on radio and television news-based programs, he was a panelist for 10 years on Front Page Challenge.

The recipient of many awards for his talents with the written word, Mr. Fotheringham was awarded the 1964 Southam Fellowship in Journalism. He was the 1980 recipient of the National Magazine Award for Humour and that year was also accorded the honour of becoming the first recipient of the National Newspaper Award for column writing. In 1999, he was inducted in the Canadian News Hall of Fame and in 2002, he received the Queen’s Golden Jubilee Medal for significant contribution to fellow Canadians. That year he was also presented with the prestigious Bruce Hutchison Lifetime Achievement Award sponsored by the Jack Webster Foundation.

Mr. Fotheringham’s contribution to Canadian life has been substantial to say the least. He has influenced the political process, the way we as Canadians view ourselves and he has insisted that we not take ourselves too seriously. His political commentary laced with humour helped awaken many Canadians to the political and democratic processes and helped all of us to look at things “outside the box”, a place where Mr. Fotheringham has always thrived.

In addition to all of his remarkable accomplishments, Mr. Fotheringham rarely misses an opportunity to promote Canada and Canadian values in far-flung locations around the world. He has also supported and lent his name to many worthy causes including the Prostrate Cancer Foundation and the Stephen Leacock Foundation which assists underprivileged children, and recently the Government House Heritage Property Centennial Project in Regina.

Honorary Doctor of Laws

John Francis (Frank) Roy

John Francis (Frank) Roy was born on a farm near Tullis, Saskatchewan, and his early schooling was in a one-room rural school. He earned a B.A. in Philosophy and History (1948), B.Ed. (1953), and an M.A (1968) from the University of Saskatchewan

Mr. Roy contributed to the lives of more than 4,500 students during 35 years as a high school teacher, and his service to the teaching profession has been extensive and sustained. He contributed significantly to changes in the English curriculum, having chaired a two-year study on the state of English studies in Saskatchewan, culminating in the report "Freedom with Responsibility" in 1968. He was subsequently directly involved in working to implement the recommended improvements, including development of a new High School English curriculum. Mr. Roy also served the international community, teaching at Lahr, Germany and Gambia, West Africa.

Recognized as a master teacher and leader in his profession, Mr. Roy was a lecturer in English teaching methods at the University of Saskatchewan and frequent guest lecturer on this topic. In addition to his varied contributions to improving student performance in English, he was an active promoter of Outdoor Education, developing and delivering the naturalist component of the Outdoor Education program for 25 years. He was a member of the provincial Rhodes Scholarship Committee from 1987 to 1992 and served as Western Canadian representative in 1989 and 1992.

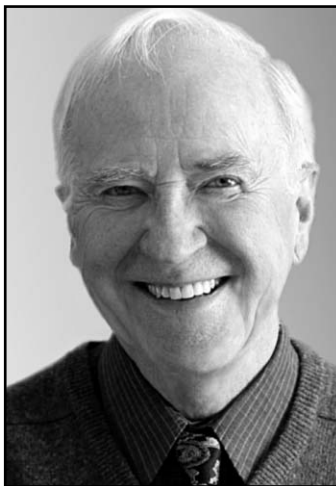

A committed environmentalist and conservationist, Mr. Roy contributed to drafting provincial and national policies on ecology, and his work has helped shape public opinion. He has been a member of the Saskatchewan Natural History Society, now Nature Saskatchewan, from its inception, serving on the executive and as president. Mr. Roy also became a founding member of the Saskatoon Natural History Society, now the Saskatoon Nature Society, serving this organization in several capacities, including president.

In 1996, Mr. Roy published Birds of the Elbow, recognized as one of the most comprehensive regional bird guides published in Canada. A companion work, The Birds of Saskatoon, to which Mr. Roy was a major contributor, was published in 2002. He is a keen advocate of ecotourism and served on the Ecotourism Task Force for Sustainable Development.

Mr. Roy was awarded the first Joe Duffy Memorial Award for excellence in the teaching of English (1983); the Meewasin Valley Conservation Award for Leadership in conservation and environmental education (1992); the Distinguished Alumnus Award from St. Thomas More College (1992); and the Queen Elizabeth 50th Anniversary Medal in 2002. He is also a Fellow of the Saskatchewan Natural History Society.

Mr. Roy's work in education, natural history, writing, ecumenism and community service are extensive and exemplary and have contributed much to enriching our province and nation.

Earned Doctor of Letters

John Courtney

John C. Courtney is Professor Emeritus of Political Studies at the University of Saskatchewan. He holds a B.A. (1958) from the University of Manitoba, an M.B.A. (1960) from the University of Western Ontario, and an M.A. (1962) and Ph.D. (1964) from Duke University. Professor Courtney joined the University of Saskatchewan in 1965 and served on faculty for 39 years, first with the former department of Economics and Political Science and more recently with the department of Political Studies. He has held visiting teaching appointments at Marburg University in Germany, Northwestern University in the United States, and the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. In 1990-1991 he held the Mackenzie King Chair in Canadian Studies at Harvard University.

Professor Courtney's research and publications have been devoted to questions of representation, party leadership and party conventions, electoral reform, and electoral districting. He is the author of four books, including Do Conventions Matter? Choosing National Party Leaders in Canada (1995) and Commissioned Ridings: Designing Canada's Electoral Districts (2001). His most recent book, Elections (2004), is the first of ten volumes in the Democratic Audit of Canada series. The editor or co-editor of five books, he has also published 19 refereed articles, 31 chapters in books, 15 articles in non-refereed journals, and several commissioned reports, occasional papers, and book reviews.

A former President of the Canadian Political Science Association and co-editor of the Canadian Journal of Political Science, Professor Courtney has served as well on the boards of the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, the Canadian Institute for the Administration of Justice, and the Canadian Advisory Committee for the Halbert Centre of the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He has received several research grants, including two from the Canada Council and six from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council. He is currently engaged in research on comparative electoral reform, and in the fall of 2005 he will serve as a Public Policy Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson Centre in Washington, D.C.

Professor Courtney received the Queen's Silver Jubilee Medal in 1977, the Canadian Studies Writing Award in 1986, a Killam Research Fellowship from the Canada Council in 1998-2000, the University of Saskatchewan's Distinguished Researcher Award in 2001, and the University of Saskatchewan Students' Union Teaching Excellence Award in 2002.

Earned Doctor of Science

Reuben Mapletoft

Dr. Reuben Mapletoft received a D.V.M. from the University of Guelph in 1967, and M.S. (1975) and Ph.D. (1977) degrees in Endocrinology and Reproductive Physiology from the University of Wisconsin. He joined the WCVM as Director of Clinical Research in 1977. He became Head of the Department of Herd Medicine and Theriogenology (now Large Animal Clinical Sciences) in 1998. In July, 2002, Dr. Mapletoft took a one year Leave of Absence to consult with Bioniche Animal Health, which has led to a 50% appointment with the University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Mapletoft's research in reproductive biology and the application of assisted reproductive technologies in cattle spans more than 30 years. He is world renowned for his work in bovine embryo transfer, estrus synchronization and superovulation. His embryo transfer protocols have become the de facto standard for clinical use worldwide, and he has been instrumental in developing the embryo transfer industry in Canada and around the world. He is a Past-president of the International Embryo Transfer Society and Founding President of the Canadian Embryo Transfer Association.

Much of Dr. Mapletoft's recent work involves the manipulation of ovarian follicular function for superovulation, estrus synchronization and timed-breeding in cattle. He has also utilized in vitro fertilization to evaluate oocyte competence, the effect of sperm morphology on fertilization and zygote development, and the development of this model to study male factor infertility in humans.

He is also investigating the use of non-biological additives for the culture and cryopreservation of spermatozoa, oocytes and embryos. Dr. Mapletoft has brought over $6 million dollars in research funding to the University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Mapletoft has played a central role in building the University of Saskatchewan Reproductive Science and Medicine program, the only one in Canada where there is close collaboration between a veterinary college and a college of medicine. Reproductive research on animal models has paid dividends in learning how to treat fertility disorders in people.

Dr. Mapletoft is also very active in technology transfer: he has given over 150 invited lectures in more than 30 countries and has trained graduate students from all over the world. He has contributed more than 300 papers to published conference proceedings and authored more than 130 refereed publications. He has conducted over three dozen embryo transfer workshops for more than 200 veterinary professionals from around the world.

Dr. Mapletoft has set international standards and his work has led to new developments in assisted reproductive technologies in cattle on every continent. His efforts and enthusiasm speak well, both for him and for the university. In 2003, the University of Saskatchewan honoured him with its Distinguished Researcher Award.

President's Service Award

David Bocking

A leader and visionary in the information technology field, David Bocking has seen many changes in his 25-year career at the University of Saskatchewan. His unwavering commitment to the Department of Computer Science and contributions to the campus community make him a worthy recipient of the Spring 2005 President's Service Award.

Born and raised in Saskatoon, Bocking earned a Bachelor of Science (General) and Bachelor of Science (Advanced Certificate) in Computational Science at the U of S in 1974. Following his undergraduate studies, Bocking was employed by Bell-Northern Research in Ottawa, Ontario. He returned to Saskatoon several years later and accepted a position with the Hospital Systems Study Group.

In 1980, Bocking joined the U of S and assumed the role of computer facilities manager in the Department of Computational Science (now Computer Science). While working in the department, Bocking completed his graduate studies in Computational Science and obtained his Master's Degree in 1983.

Bocking is responsible for overseeing the instructional and research computer labs in Computer Science and for keeping abreast of trends and changes in the fast-paced world of information technology. He has gained the respect and admiration of faculty, staff, researchers and students across campus, as noted by the many supporters of his award nomination.

Committed to the research mission of the U of S, Bocking has provided valuable insight and guidance on information technology needs. He has served on many institutional committees and helped create the campus-wide Computer Lab Managers' forum. He is an avid promoter of high performance computing and cluster computers and continues to maintain relationships with computer science lab managers across the country.

Bocking has been a constant force for technology innovation at the U of S. He is credited with several campus feats, including the first

Unix lab in 1982, the first workstation lab in 1986, and the first Macintosh lab in 1988. He was also instrumental in the design of the undergraduate computer science lab, one of Canada's finest facilities, in the Spinks Addition.

Bocking has been an active member of the Administrative and Supervisory Personnel Association (ASPA) and a volunteer for the U of S Computer Museum. His colleagues credit him for being an avid organizer and participant of department social events.

An exemplary employee, an inspirational colleague, and a champion of students, Bocking has made a lasting impact on the U of S.

Distinguished Researcher Award

Robert L. Calder

The Distinguished Researcher Award recognizes a faculty member's contribution to scholarship through the creation, expansion, and critique of knowledge. Dr. Robert L. Calder, Professor of English, College of Arts and Science, is the recipient of the Spring 2005 award.

Dr. Calder earned a Bachelor of Arts, Honours, in English Literature from the University of Saskatchewan in 1964. He continued his studies at the University of Saskatchewan, earning his Master's degree in 1965, before going to Leeds University where he earned his Doctorate in 1970.

Calder is an internationally renowned scholar in modern British literature and, on the strength of his two books and twenty-three articles on the subject, is considered the world's leading authority on author Somerset Maugham.

Critics praised Calder's first book, W. Somerset Maugham and the Quest for Freedom, published in 1972, for both its thoroughness and readability. His next book on Maugham, Willie: The Life of W. Somerset Maugham, published in 1989, is known as the definitive Maugham biography. It has attracted enormous critical acclaim and garnered Calder the Governor-General's Literary Award for Non-Fiction, one of Canada's highest literary honours.

The author of six books, as well as a prodigious output of influential articles and book chapters, Calder is a scholar known for his remarkable breadth as much as for his focused expertise. His work deftly shifts from international stories to those with local and personal resonance.

In 2004, Calder published two major works, each in a different genre—Beware the British Serpent and

A Richer Dust: Family, Memory and the Second World War. The former is a meticulously researched and pioneering work on the role of British writers in World War II propaganda. A Richer Dust is a moving family memoir that is at once personal and of universal interest. It examines Canadians' experience with shell-shock and the effect of psychological dislocation on succeeding family generations.

Beware the British Serpent won two Saskatchewan Book Awards in 2004, including Scholarly Book Award, while A Richer Dust was short-listed in both the non-fiction and Book of the Year categories.

Not content to limit his interests to the literary realm, Calder is also the co-author of a popular history of the Saskatchewan Roughriders, Rider Pride: The Story of Canada's Best-Loved Football Team. Calder also co-edited the anthology Time as a Human Resource, an ambitious and multidisciplinary work on the subject of time—something Calder knows how to use judiciously.

Calder has compiled his lengthy record of scholarly achievement while participating actively in the administrative life of the University and while being a devoted teacher to both undergraduate and graduate students. He chaired the English Department from 1979 to 1981, was Associate Dean of Humanities and Fine Arts from 1981 to 1984, and was Acting Head of the Department of Music between 1989 and 1999.

Acclaimed as he is in the fields of literary commentary, biography, criticism and literary history, Calder's achievements contribute greatly to the international reputation of this University and to the success of our students.

Outreach & Public Service Award

Sheila Schmutz

A leader in the field of animal genetics and a researcher of international acclaim, Dr. Sheila Schmutz has extended the University's expertise beyond the campus and scientific community. Her commitment to information-sharing and public dialogue makes her a worthy recipient of the Outreach and Public Service Award.

Dr. Schmutz was born in St. Paul, Minnesota, and grew up in Louisiana and Wisconsin. She received a B.Sc. from the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, a M.Sc. from the University of Alberta, and a Ph.D. from Queen's University.

After a post doctoral fellowship at the University of Calgary, she joined the U of S in 1983. In addition to her role as professor in the Department of Animal and Poultry Science, she currently serves as Acting Associate Dean (Research) in the College of Agriculture.

Dr. Schmutz is highly regarded for her research in two core areas—genes influencing the economics of beef cattle production and genes affecting coat colour in cattle and dogs.

Her world-class genomics research has thrust the U of S into the international spotlight. Dr. Schmutz's team of professionals has been credited with many discoveries including leading-edge DNA tests related to cattle horns and scurs, carcass quality and milk composition, cattle and dog coat colour and related disorders. Groups of these DNA tests are offered by three Canadian companies: Quantum Genetics, Bova-Can Laboratories and HealthGene. As a result, the public can access important information for breeding decisions.

Although Dr. Schmutz's research is well-documented in scientific papers and conferences, her primary outreach tool has been the Internet. Her websites dedicated to cattle traits and cattle and dog coat colour provide valuable information to breeders, researchers and students around the world.

During her sabbatical in 2003, Dr. Schmutz launched an online book entitled Genes for Cowboys. This website on beef cattle genetics continues to be a popular resource for students and ranchers.

She also shares information and engages the public through newspaper and magazine articles and television and radio interviews. She encourages her students to participate in extension activities and share their findings with the broader community.

Dr. Schmutz has successfully transferred her knowledge to the University community and beyond, and is a fine ambassador of the U of S.

Master Teacher Award

Ernie Walker

It is more than a bit of a challenge to squeeze all the enthusiastic accolades and overwhelmingly positive comments offered by his students and colleagues into this brief citation for someone of the caliber of Dr. Ernie Walker. We have here an individual whose contributions to heritage and the community have been recognized both provincially through the Saskatchewan Order of Merit in 2001 and nationally in his becoming a Member of the Order of Canada this past fall. Despite his incredibly busy schedule of diverse undertakings, teaching and his students always remain his top priority.

Besides the repeatedly used adjective "excellent" to describe his ability as an instructor, the oft-used phrases "one of the best profs you could ask for" and "this course was so good I wish I could take it again" are just two glowing examples of the kind of response Dr. Walker elicits in the classroom. Students love his approachability, his care and concern for their success in their studies which includes always finding time for their questions and needs, his enthusiasm in and comprehensive knowledge of the disciplines in which he instructs and the way he inspires them to reach further and delve deeper. He also brings an energy, spontaneity and sense of humour to his teaching which is deeply appreciated by students.

Dr. Walker has always carried a teaching load that is the wonder of most of us. Yet this occurs because he responds to the needs and interests of his students. Five years ago he developed a BSc program that has seen explosive growth in enrolment. He also contributes to the Paleobiology program and has Associate membership and teaching responsibilities in the College of Dentistry, College of Medicine and the Department of Geological Sciences. He has been involved in the U of S Aboriginal Post-Secondary Education Initiative and maintains strong ties with

First Nations through his work at Wanuskewin Heritage Park which he helped develop over twenty years ago. Dr. Walker also provides a Forensic Anthropology Training course for law enforcement.

When asked once if he enjoyed teaching, Dr. Walker replied that he not only enjoys it but adores it at times. Clearly his students adore his dedication and commitment to their best interests as this award shows.

Governor General's Academic Medals

These medals are awarded to the undergraduate student and graduate student with the highest academic standing.

Michael Gordon Barnett (Silver Medal)

Michael was born and raised in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, where he graduated from Carlton Comprehensive High School in 2000. He graduates with a Bachelor of Science in Engineering Physics (with Great Distinction) and with Bachelor of Science in Computer Science (with Great Distinction). Michael is the recipient of the 2005 Spring Convocation Gold Medal from the Association of Professional Engineers & Geoscientists of Saskatchewan, for the most distinguished graduate in the College of Engineering, the Dr. E.L. Harrington Prize; the Engineering Physics Distinguished Graduate Award; and a Graduate Scholarship from NSERC Canada.

He has received numerous awards and scholarships during his academic career at the University of Saskatchewan. These awards include the Weyerhaeuser Community Education Scholarship, the Association of Professional Engineers and Geoscientists of Saskatchewan Prize, the Teruo Natori Scholarship and other University scholarships.

Michael has already contributed a published scientific paper with Dr. R. Dick and K.E. Wunderle (2004) "Variation of the fine structure constant in QSO spectra – a first observation of subgravitational interactions?" to Monthly Notices of the Royal Astronomical Society.

He will begin a Master's Degree in physics and work in the area of biophysics, specifically involving pattern recognition techniques applied to breast cancer screening methods. In the long term, he would like to practice family medicine or pediatrics in the Saskatoon area.

Julia Beth Ewaschuk (Gold Medal)

Julia Ewaschuk was born in Elliot Lake, Ontario. Her family moved to Saskatoon where Julia attended Marion Graham Collegiate. In 1999, she graduated with a B.Sc. (Nutrition) from the University of Saskatchewan. After a year of work and travel, she returned to the University and, in 2004, completed her Ph.D. in Nutrition.

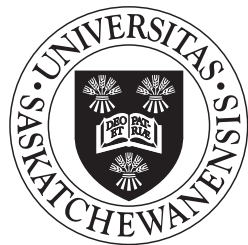

Julia's doctoral research has led to a new understanding of the origins of metabolic acidosis, a condition present in neonatal diarrhea, and a major source of economic loss to livestock enterprises in Canada. Working with her advisors Gordon Zello and Jonathan Naylor, Julia determined that the unusual acid, D-lactate, was a major cause of the acidosis. To reverse the D-lactate being produced in the colon of sick animals, Julia investigated alternative treatment approaches using probiotics instead of the conventionally used antibiotics. Her experiments involving infants have expanded the research implications to developing countries where diarrhea is a major health concern.

Julia's outstanding academic abilities have been recognized with many awards, including the prestigious NSERC Canada Scholarship. At this Convocation, she is also being awarded the University of Saskatchewan Graduate Thesis Award in the Life Sciences. Outside of her academic life, Julia is an accomplished musician and singer who enjoys the outdoors and travelling.

Julia is currently a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Alberta. She is studying the molecular mechanisms by which probiotics can treat inflammatory bowel disease. In the future, Julia would like to remain in academia, as a teacher and researcher.

Sarah Anne Armstrong, Newmarket, Ontario
Toxicology Group – Thesis: Bioaccessibility
of Polycyclic Aromatic Hydrocarbons
Dependence on Ingested Plant Species

Darren Wayne Bevans, Cardston, Alberta
Animal & Poultry Science – Thesis: Effect of the Number of Set-Up Diets Fed During
Grain Adaptation on Acidosis and Feeding
Behaviour of Feedlot Cattle

Richard Mark Anthony Block, Waldheim
Soil Science – Thesis: Fine Root Dynamics and Carbon Sequestration in Juvenile Hybrid
Poplar Plantations in Saskatchewan, Canada

Tracy Lynn Borgeson, North Battleford
Animal & Poultry Science – Thesis: Effect of Replacing Fish Meal and Oil with Simple or Complex Mixtures of Vegetable
Ingredients in Diets Fed to Nile Tilapia
(Oreochromis niloticus)

Andrea Marie Brocklebank, High River, Alberta
Agricultural Economics – Thesis: Supply Chain
Coordination in the Canadian Beef Industry:
Assessing the Opportunities and Constraints

Leif Herbert Carlson, Saskatoon
Agricultural Economics – Thesis: The Institutional
Aspects of Competitive Access in the Western Canadian Rail System

Sandra Eliana Espitia Vargas, Bogota, Columbia
Applied Microbiology & Food Science – Thesis:
Bioconversion of Canola Meal by Mixed
Cultures of Aspergillus and Lactic Acid
Bacteria in Solid State Fermentation

Shon Martin Ferguson, Edgeley
Agricultural Economics – Thesis: The Economics of Vertical Coordination in the Organic Wheat
Supply Chain

Glen Gregory Forster, Carman, Manitoba
Plant Science – Thesis: The Influence of Microsite
and Seed Limitation on Annual Weed
Seedling Recruitment in Arable Agriculture

Amanda Rae Kroeker, Saskatoon
Animal & Poultry Science – Thesis: The Nutritive
Value of Whole Raw and Roasted Sunflower
Seeds for Dairy Cattle

Yvonne Elizabeth Lawley, Winnipeg, Manitoba
Plant Science – Thesis: Determining Optimum
Plant Population Densities for Three Annual
Green Manure Crops under Weedy and Weed-
Free Conditions

Sarah Marie Lieffers, Saskatoon
Soil Science – Thesis: Impact of Slash Loading on Soil Temperature and Aspen Regeneration

Tara Lynn Procyshyn, Saskatoon
Interdisciplinary Studies – Thesis: The Saskatoon
Agricultural Biotechnology Innovation
Cluster and the Canadian Light Source:
An Assessment of the Potential for Cluster Expansion

Desmond Jay Sobool, Tisdale
Agricultural Economics – Thesis: An Economic Analysis of Afforestation on Agricultural Land in East Central Saskatchewan

Stephanie Grace Wielgosz, Saskatoon
Animal & Poultry Science – Thesis: Nutritive
Value of Pea Silage Relative to Alfalfa and Barley Silage for Beef Steers

Christian James Willenborg, Bruno
Plant Science – Thesis: Characterizing Tame Oat (Avena sativa L.) Competitive Response to Wild Oat (Avena fatua L.) Interference

Awards to Graduating Students

Agriculture

Saskatchewan Institute of Agrologists Gold Medal to Blaine Frederic Davey
The Fulton Family Prize to Robert Roland Leavins
William Allen Memorial Prize in Agricultural Economics to Jared Alan Mackow
Saskatchewan Horticultural Association Prize to William Clarke Hrycan
Frank Sosulski Graduation Prize in Crop Science and Plant Ecology to Blaine Frederic Davey
P.M. and Y.Y. Huang Distinguished Undergraduate Award in Soil Science to Kunihiro Niina
Norman H. Pearce Awards in Animal Science to Stephanie Anne Collins and Tara Leigh Briann Mulhern

Commerce

The Goodspeed Award to Sandra Friggstad
The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Saskatchewan Prize in Memory of J. H. Thompson to Sarah Amon
The Institute of Chartered Accountants of Saskatchewan Prize in Memory of J. C. MacKinnon to Carmen Hoffman
The Harold P. Milavsky Graduating Award to Hui Sun and Michelle Buckley
Canadian Petroleum Tax Society Taxation Prize to Hui Sun

Engineering

Governor General's Silver Medal presented to Michael Gordon Barnett
Association of Professional Engineers and Geoscientists of Saskatchewan Gold Medal presented to Michael Gordon Barnett
Civil Engineering Alumni Medal to Alex Sandy Gardner
Dr. E. L. Harrington Prize to Michael Gordon Barnett
Engineering Physics Distinguished Graduate Award to Michael Gordon Barnett
Eyrle Brooks Memorial Scholarship (Mechanical Engineering Distinguished Graduate Award) to Travis Shawn Siemens
Zig Szczepanik Engineering Award (Geological Engineering Distinguished Graduate Award) to Adam William Thompson
Society of Chemical Industry, Canadian Section Merit Award to Craig Anthony Twardzik
Oliver L. Symes Memorial Award to Leah Marie Howie
Clinton L. Armstrong Memorial Award to Evan Boyd Derald
Electrical Engineering Achievement Award to Christopher Tenzin Mullens

University of Saskatchewan Graduate Thesis Awards

Physical and Engineering Sciences presented to Nghi Huu Tran, M.Sc., Electrical Engineering Thesis: Signal Mapping Designs For Bit-Interleaved Coded Modulation With Iterative Decoding (BICM-ID)

Undergraduate degrees, graduate degrees and diplomas will be awarded to the graduates of

Dentistry
Kinesiology
Medicine
Nursing
Pharmacy & Nutrition
Physical Therapy
Veterinary Medicine

Thursday, May 26
9:00 a.m.

Convocation Program

May 26, 2005 • 9:00 a.m.

Chancellor W. Thomas (Tom) Molloy, O.C., Q.C., B.A., LL.B., presiding

Procession

The academic procession will enter the hall in the following order: Graduands in the order in which degrees are to be conferred; Faculty; Board of Governors; Senate; Guests of Honour; The President; The Chancellor.

Welcome

O Canada

Clinton Hagel

Invocation

Laurie Friesen, University Chaplain

Introductions

Conferring of Earned Doctor of Science Degree

Reuben Mapletoft

Presented by Tom Wishart,
Dean of Graduate Studies & Research

President's Address

Peter MacKinnon

Musical Interlude

Sea Songs
