President's Message

PETER MacKINNON

I want to express a very warm welcome to the graduates, families and friends who join us today. Convocation is the University's most important ceremony, for it is here that we celebrate the accomplishments of our students and the contributions of their loved ones to their success. You should be proud of this day and of the commitment and sacrifice that it represents.

In this our Centennial year, we at the University of Saskatchewan are especially proud of our accomplishments over the past 100 years, and it is thanks in large part to you, our students, who have helped us to achieve our goal of building a world-class institution of higher learning.

As we celebrate our successes with pride and anticipate our future with excitement, the University of Saskatchewan is ready to expand on the original vision of our founders. Our mission now is to engage fully in all we do, to enlighten all we serve, and to explore all aspects of our world. We hope that you—our graduates—will carry on this same mission as you engage, enlighten and explore within your own new life.

We extend to you our very best wishes for the future. We hope that you will stay in touch with us through our University of Saskatchewan alumni family, and that we will have the opportunity to welcome you 'home' to our campus many times in the years ahead.

Warmest congratulations!

The Chancellor

VERA PEZER

Dr. Pezer has a long association with the University of Saskatchewan, earning her undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University and serving as the Associate Vice-President (Student Affairs and Services) from 1991 to 2001. Dr. Pezer first joined the University in 1966 in Student Counselling Services and as a part-time instructor in the Department of Psychology. She would later become Director of Student Counselling, an Assistant Professor of Psychology and Assistant Dean, College of Arts and Science. Under her leadership, student retention and academic success were enhanced and the University's first offices dedicated to student emergency financial assistance, disability services for students, and Aboriginal student support programs established.

She has held volunteer and leadership roles with the Saskatoon Board of Police Commissioners, Saskatchewan Centennial Gala, Hope Cancer Race for Recovery, Saskatoon Housing Coalition, and the YWCA. Dr. Pezer has also contributed widely to professional and amateur sports organizations. She was member and Chair of the 1989 Jeux Canada Games Foundation, Director of the 1991 Scott Tournament of Hearts and Ceremonies Chair of the 1989 Brier. As a Sport Psychologist, Dr. Pezer served as an advisor and trainer to Canadian Curling Teams in two Olympic Games.

An accomplished athlete in her own right, Dr. Pezer is a four-time Canadian Ladies' Curling Champion, a Canadian Softball Champion, and two-time member of the Saskatchewan Senior Women's golf team. She has received a place of honour in the Saskatoon and Saskatchewan Sports Halls of Fame and in the Canadian Curling Hall of Fame. In 2003, Dr. Pezer completed her first book, The Stone Age: A Social History of Curling in the Prairies. Dr. Pezer was honoured with a Saskatchewan Centennial Medal in 2006, and in 2002, received the University of Saskatchewan Alumni Award of Achievement.

Dr. Pezer was elected Chancellor July 1, 2007. She presides over Convocation, confers degrees, chairs the Senate and is a member of the Board of Governors.

Alumni Message

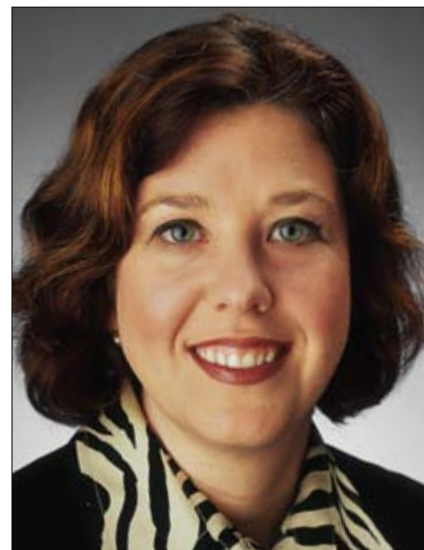

HEATHER MAGOTIAUX

Convocation is a great opportunity to reflect on our past accomplishments and look to the future. The leaders and builders of University of Saskatchewan had great vision and expectations for the U of S. I think that you would agree that our University has emerged as a great Canadian university and, in areas of academic preeminence, we are recognized as world leaders. The University of Saskatchewan is a place where great minds meet.

As the graduates receive their degrees today, they join a larger community of over 120,000 U of S alumni worldwide. For more than 100 years, our graduates have become leaders in their chosen professions and enhanced the profile and reputation of the University of Saskatchewan. This responsibility has been passed to you to become our new leaders and innovators. Create a legacy that future U of S students and alumni can celebrate over the next century. And don't forget to stay connected with your University, your College and your classmates during your lifelong journey.

Use your energy and passion to live and build well and continue to develop your great mind. Congratulations to the class of 2008.

THORVALDSON BUILDING

Since 1907, the University of Saskatchewan has been building a proud tradition. We have evolved from a prairie college to a centre of excellence in education and research. Our students, faculty, staff and alumni are a testament to our success. Their example has set a precedent for institutions across Canada,
North America and the world.

Looking BACK

POPULATION

In 1907, the year the University of Saskatchewan was established, the population of Saskatoon was roughly 4,500 and the province of Saskatchewan, 210,000.

Saskatoon's population today tops 200,000; Saskatchewan's grazes the million mark.

STUDENTS/FACULTY

In 1909, five faculty members taught the first group of 70 students. Classes were initially held in the Drinkle building in downtown Saskatoon.

Currently more than 1,000 faculty members mentor a student body of nearly 20,000.

COLLEGES

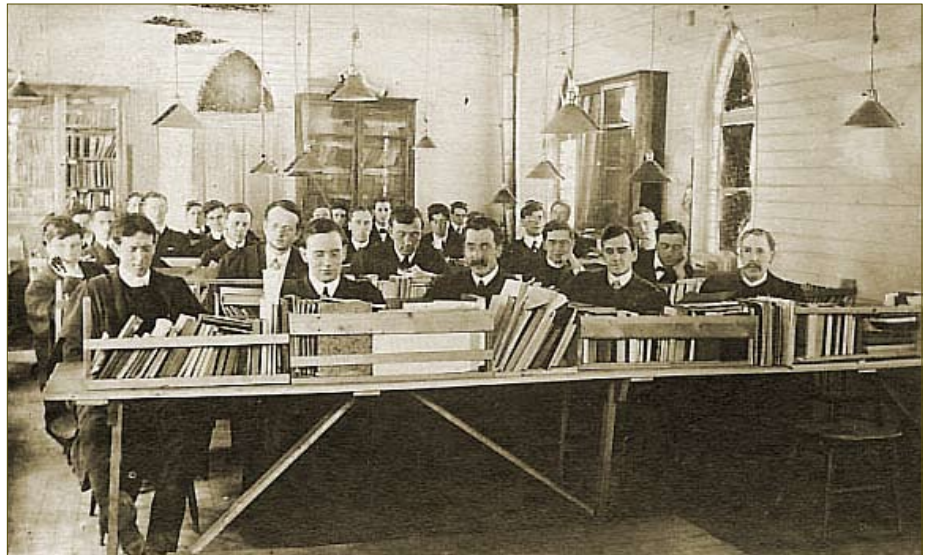

Arts & Science and Agriculture were the first two colleges to be established at the U of S—in 1908 and 1909, respectively. Today, 13 colleges and four schools offer 58 degrees, diplomas and certificates in over 100 areas of study.

TUITION

In 1909, tuition fees were $6 per class. Today the cost ranges from approximately $800 to $1,400 per class.

GRADUATES

In 1912, the U of S honoured its first graduating class of seven students. The ceremony was held at Nutana Collegiate. At this year's Convocation spring and fall ceremonies, we will honour nearly 4,000 new graduates.

“The atmosphere of Saskatoon will be changed. We shall rise to a higher plane of being.”

— Comment by local lawyer R.W. Shannon upon learning that Saskatoon had been chosen as home to the province's University

The University of Saskatchewan was established by the University Act on April 3, 1907, only 18 months after Saskatchewan became a province.

The people of the province, as well as their government, were instrumental in shaping the new University. The provincial government requested all residents who were graduates of a Canadian or British university to form the first Convocation and elect the University's Senate. In 1908, the Board selected Professor Walter Charles Murray, of Dalhousie University, as the first President.

Classes in Arts and Science began in September, 1909, in downtown Saskatoon. Construction of the campus began in 1910 and the first buildings were occupied in the fall of 1912. They included the College Building (Administration Building), Saskatchewan Hall (a student residence), residences for the Dean of Agriculture and the President, a laboratory for Engineering and a number of farm buildings.

College Building construction takes shape, November 1911. A-23

From the beginning, the University established an emphasis on research and teaching in a context of community service, and encouraged co-operation among departments and divisions in tackling common problems. The development of rust-resistant strains of wheat, for example, initiated by the University and federal and provincial research agencies, has been of untold value to the prairie economy.

In 1909, the University had 70 students and five professors, including the President. Today there are over 19,000 students studying in 13 colleges and four schools. This is the only university in Canada with five health-science colleges and a major teaching hospital on the same campus.

The University of Saskatchewan overlooks the South Saskatchewan River. Most early buildings on campus are Collegiate Gothic in style and are constructed in a local dolomite, popularly known as greystone. Subsequently constructed buildings also have greystone, as well as Tyndall stone (pre-cut slabs quarried in Tyndall, Manitoba), concrete, brick, glass and aggregate facings.

The University offers many points of interest for visitors: the Diefenbaker Canada Centre, Museum of Natural Sciences, Museum of Antiquities, Biology Museum, Pharmaceutical Museum, the Observatory, the Gordon Snelgrove Gallery, the St. Thomas More Gallery, Rugby Chapel, the Little Stone Schoolhouse, the Memorial Gates, Patterson Garden and the Kenderdine Gallery.

LOOKING forward

With sights firmly fixed on the future, the University of Saskatchewan has embarked on an ambitious effort to advance its already significant contribution of knowledge, innovation and leadership to the people and economy of this province, this country and the world.

Our plan commits energy and resources where they count the most—to enhancing the student experience, to encouraging collaboration and to supporting research, scholarly and artistic endeavour.

Success will require that University of Saskatchewan students be well prepared to thrive in the ‘knowledge age,’ that they be equipped to succeed. In the coming years, the University will explore improvement and innovation both inside the classroom and out, all the while ensuring the campus remains a welcoming place for Aboriginal students, students from other parts of Canada and those from nations around the world.

The future will also see the University establish across the institution a culture of research and scholarship that attracts top faculty and students. Supporting this move are world-class facilities that are already in place, like the Vaccine and Infectious Disease Organization (VIDO), or are under construction, such as the $251-million Academic Health Sciences project. These and other facilities will play a role in shining the light on current and emerging areas of excellence.

In keeping with our founders’ early vision, the University of Saskatchewan will continue to be a model of innovation, excellence, diversity and leadership throughout the post-secondary education sector, and beyond.

The word “Convocation” arises from the Latin “cum” meaning “together,” and “vocare” meaning “to call.” Our Convocation ceremony is a calling together of the new graduates of the University of Saskatchewan, symbolizing the historical practice of calling together all former graduates. In current times, the major functions of Convocation are the election of representatives to University governing bodies and the admission of candidates to degrees. The Chancellor, elected by Convocation as its Chair, is the highest official and spokesperson of the University.

The Convocation ceremony marks the transition from the role of student to the holder of a degree with its accompanying rights and privileges.

The ceremony, solemnized in the presence of the University community and family and friends of the graduands, consists of three parts: a procession marking the leaving of the old status and entering the new; the President’s statement to the graduands, the Secretary’s petition and the Chancellor’s consent for their admission; followed by individual presentation by their Dean and admission by the Chancellor to the degrees to which they are entitled. As graduates are admitted to their degrees, a graduation hood, which has a colour symbolizing a particular degree, is placed over each graduate’s head.

Convocation

ENTRANCE

The members of Convocation in their academic robes march in procession into the ceremony in the following order: Graduands in the order in which their degrees are to be conferred; Faculty; Board of Governors; Senate; Guests of Honour; The President; The Chancellor; The Lieutenant Governor. When the members of Convocation reach their places they remain standing during the Vice-Regal Salute, the singing of O Canada and the Invocation.

ORDER OF THE CEREMONY

The first business is the Conferring of Honorary Degrees, followed by Convocation Address, President's Statement to the Graduands, the Conferring of Degrees and the Presentation of Awards. The meeting is closed by the Chancellor rising and asking the audience to join in the singing of God Save the Queen and leading the procession in the reverse order out of the hall.

DEGREE CEREMONY

The ceremony comprises the Petition, the Admission, and the Presentation.

THE PETITION

The University Secretary on behalf of all the Candidates, addresses the Chancellor and Senate in these words:

"Eminent Chancellor, President, I present to you the petition that the candidates to be named, having fulfilled all the requirements of the statutes, may be admitted to the degrees and certificates to which they are entitled".

THE ADMISSION

The Chancellor then addresses the candidates in these words:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by the Legislature of this Province, and with the consent of the Council of this University, I consent to admit you to the degrees and certificates to which you are entitled and to invest you with all the powers, rights and privileges pertaining thereto."

THE PRESENTATION

The Dean of the Faculty, or designate, followed by the candidates of that Faculty, approaches the Chancellor from the left and presents the candidates with these words:

"Eminent Chancellor, on behalf of the Faculty of _____, I present to you these Scholars and ask that you will confer on them the degree of _____."

As the Dean speaks the candidate's name in full, the candidate moves forward in front of the Chancellor. Then the Chancellor says, "I admit you" and the University Secretary or the Registrar places the hood over the candidate's head. Hereupon the candidate passes to the Chancellor's right, is greeted by the President, and receives the degree parchment.

DEGREES IN ABSENTIA

In such cases, the University Secretary says:

"Eminent Chancellor, in the name of the Faculties, I ask you to grant the degrees and certificates, in absentia, to those students whose names appear in the printed program and who were not able to be present today."

The Chancellor replies:

"At the request of the Faculties I authorize these degrees and certificates to be granted."

The Convocation Ceremony

ACADEMIC COSTUMES

Academic costume lends an element of colourful pageantry to the Convocation proceedings. This traditional clothing—worn on a daily basis at universities in earlier times—is now more commonly reserved for ceremonial functions.

At the University of Saskatchewan, the following academic costume is adopted to be worn upon all appropriate occasions:

The gown resembles a long cape with full sleeve cut to elbow and terminating in a point for the Bachelor's degree; with long sleeve and a semi-circular cut at the bottom for the Master's degree; and with round open sleeves for the Doctor's degree. The material is black for the Bachelor's degree, and black material or silk for the Master's and Doctor's degrees. The Doctor's gown may have a border down the front on either side of a color distinctive of the character of the degree.

The hoods for the Bachelor's and Master's degrees are of black broadcloth. For the Doctor's (Ph.D.) degree the hood is scarlet cloth with a blue lining. The Master's and Doctor's hoods have a lining and the Bachelor's an edging (and in some cases, a lining) of a color distinctive of the character of the degree.

Honorary Doctor of Science

MICHAEL SHAW

Dr. Michael Shaw, Professor Emeritus of the University of British Columbia, is a distinguished plant physiologist who enjoys an international reputation for his authoritative research on the physiology and biochemistry of host-parasite relationships. In particular, he has directed his efforts to the cell and molecular biology of this interaction in rust fungi, obligate parasites that infect several economically important crop plants.

Born in Barbados, Dr. Shaw obtained his Ph.D. from McGill University in 1949, and joined the Department of Biology of the University of Saskatchewan in 1950, serving as Department Head from 1961 to 1967, before becoming Dean of Agricultural Sciences at the University of British Columbia. He was subsequently Vice-President (Academic Development) from 1975 to 1981 and Vice-President (Academic) and Provost from 1981 to 1983. From 1983 until his retirement in 1989, he held the title of University Professor, an honour only rarely conferred upon the most distinguished faculty members.

Dr. Shaw has played a significant role in the development of science in Canada. He has served on many committees of the National Research Council of Canada and Agriculture Canada and was a founding member of the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada. He has been President of the Canadian Society of Plant Physiologists, the Canadian Botanical Association and the Biological Council of Canada. From 1964 to 1979, he was Editor of the Canadian Journal of Botany.

Dr. Shaw has received many honours in recognition of the importance of his scientific contributions. He is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and was awarded the Society's Flavelle Medal in 1976. He has received the Gold Medal of the Canadian Society of Plant Physiologists and the first Gold Medal of the Biological Council of Canada. He has been elected a Fellow of the Canadian Phytopathological Society, the American Phytopathological Society, the New York Academy of Sciences and the Linnean Society of London. McGill University in 1975 and the University of British Columbia in 2003 have awarded him honorary doctorates.

Dr. Shaw's outstanding career in teaching, research, administration and public service in itself merits the award of an honorary degree. However, it is his particular contribution to the University of Saskatchewan during a period of seventeen years that makes the award by this University entirely appropriate. He began his pioneering host-parasite studies during that period and carried them to an advanced level of achievement, bringing international acclaim to the University, and his leadership guided the Department during its period of most vigorous growth and established the foundation upon which its subsequent development has rested.

Dr. Shaw met his wife, the former Jean Berkinshaw, while they were both at McGill. They have four children.

Honorary Doctor of Science

H. DOUGLAS BARBER

H. Douglas Barber was born on a Saskatchewan farm and attended the University of Saskatchewan obtaining his B.Sc. with Great Distinction, winning the Governor General's Gold Medal, and attaining an M.Sc. in Electrical Engineering. As an Athlone Fellow and NATO Scholar he received his Ph.D. from Imperial College, University of London in 1965.

Dr. Barber began employment in 1965 in a new microelectronics initiative at Canadian Westinghouse, Hamilton, Ontario. In 1973 he was one of the founders of Linear Technology Inc., now known as Genum Corporation, a company which has become a world leader in hearing aid microcircuitry and high-end broadcast video products. Dr. Barber was President of Genum Corp. and CEO when he retired in 2000.

From 1968 to 1994, Dr. Barber was a part-time Engineering Physics Professor at McMaster University and appointed Distinguished Professor-in-Residence in 2001. Dr. Barber speaks frequently on business, technology, learning, innovation and economic development and has authored many refereed papers and filed several patents. He has been said to “epitomize the modern engineering entrepreneur.”

Dr. Barber's honors include the APEO Engineering Medal, the University of Saskatchewan C.J. Mackenzie Distinguished Graduate Award, the Professional Engineers of Ontario Gold Medal, and Engineer of the Year Award of the Hamilton Engineering Institute. Dr. Barber has received an Honorary Doctorate of Engineering from the University of Waterloo, an Honorary Doctorate of Science from McMaster University, and in 1999 was named Ontario's Technology Entrepreneur of the Year, receiving the National Citation for Innovation & Technology. In 2006 Dr. Barber was appointed as an Officer of the Order of Canada.

Dr. Barber was also a Director of the Strategic Microelectronics Consortium, the Canadian Advanced Technology Association, the Hearing Industries Association and the Alberta Microelectronics Corp, among others. As a member of the Sectoral Skills Council, the Natural Sciences and Engineering Research Council of Canada, the National Innovation Strategy, the Ontario Postsecondary Education Quality Assessment Board and Vice Chair of the Ontario Science and Innovation Council, Dr. Barber has demonstrated his long-standing commitment to promote innovative technology and university-industry linkages.

At McMaster University, Dr. Barber is past Chair and a continuing member of the Board of Governors, member of the Directors College and a past member of the Senate. He is Chair of the Engineering Dean's Advisory Board. He was a member of the Conference Board of Canada Leader's Roundtable on Commercialization and of the Ontario Ministry of Economic Development and Trade's Commercialization Advisory Council. He is a member of the Board of the Institute of Quantum Computing and a member of the Ontario Research and Innovation Council.

Dr. Barber and his wife, June, have raised a family of four whose families now include nine grandchildren. He is a man of faith with over 35 years of active involvement in their church.

Honorary Doctor of Science

JAMES (JIM) EDGAR TILL

Jim Till was born at Lloydminster, on the Saskatchewan side of the Alberta-Saskatchewan border, and received his early education there. He graduated from the University of Saskatchewan with a B.A. in 1952 and a M.A. in Physics in 1954. He earned his Ph.D. in Biophysics at Yale in 1957. Upon graduation from Yale, he returned to Canada and joined Dr. Harold Johns, the developer of the "Cobalt Bomb", as a founding member of the scientific staff of the newly-built Ontario

Cancer Institute in Toronto. They both were also founding members of the Department of Medical Biophysics at the University of Toronto, where Jim has had a long and fruitful research career.

Shortly after joining the Ontario Cancer Institute, he started collaborating with Dr. Ernest McCulloch. This led to their pioneering work defining the hallmark properties of stem cells, including their capacity for self-renewal and pluripotency. This seminal discovery was the first evidence for the existence of stem cells, which are currently of great interest because of their potential for use in the treatment of a wide variety of medical disorders. The work of Till and McCulloch also formed the basis of bone marrow stem cell transplants, now widely used in the treatment of patients with leukemia and other blood disorders. Not only has their work stood the test of time, it still forms the basis for much of the work currently being done in the rapidly expanding area of stem cell research.

Dr. Till carried out research ranging from work on hematological stem cells to membrane biology and somatic cell genetics. He subsequently developed an interest in studies on the quality of life issues of cancer patients. This has led to his current advocacy in support of more open online access to the peer-reviewed research literature, for everyone for whom it's not currently freely accessible, including patients. In contrast to many classical academic researchers, he has used his basic knowledge and training and applied it to a wide range of different problems. The fact that he has made major contributions to many of these areas illustrates his ability to view problems from a unique perspective.

In 2005 Dr. Till was recognized by the Lasker Foundation with the award of the prestigious 2005 Lasker Award for Basic Medical Research. This award is one of many, which include being made an Officer of the Order of Canada (1994), induction into the Canadian Medical Hall of Fame (2004), and being a recipient of the Gairdner Foundation International Award (1969).

Distinguished Researcher Award

WEI XIAO

The Distinguished Researcher Award recognizes a faculty member's contribution to scholarship through creation, expansion, and critique of knowledge. Wei Xiao, department head and professor of microbiology and immunology, is the Spring 2008 award recipient.

Professor Xiao is a significant contributor to the fields of DNA repair and cancer research. Colleagues from across the globe have described the microbiologist's work as pioneering, seminal, and at the forefront of a new wave of DNA repair research.

Xiao's research has already garnered a National Cancer Institute of Canada's (NCIC) Research Scientist Award and a spot on the Canadian Who's Who list since 1996. This praise is founded on years of ground-breaking research. For instance, Xiao discovered a pair of closely related genes called Beauty and Beast that may govern cancer development. Uncovering Beauty and Beast was later declared a "Milestone in Canadian Health Research" by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR).

Xiao is also known for contributing to finding NEMO, a tiny protein that he once described as, "an essential link in the chain of events resulting in the cells' efforts to defend the vast ocean of the human body against invaders such as viral and bacterial infections." Finding this immune response switch secured a place in a 2004 issue of the renowned journal Nature.

More recently, Xiao published a paper in the prestigious research journal Cell identifying a 9-1-1 signalling complex that cells can use to initiate an SOS response in their fight against carcinogens.

Fellow researchers in the field have already lauded this breakthrough, indicating they have awaited it for over 20 years. It is no surprise, then, that this summer Xiao will share his discovery at the prominent Gordon Research Conference on Mutagenesis at Oxford University.

Throughout his career, Xiao has joined with researchers from across Canada, the United States, France, China, Australia, and Japan to author more than 70 articles in peer-reviewed journals. His collaborative work has appeared in notable publications such as Cell, Nature, Nature Structural and Molecular Biology, Journal of Cell Biology and Plant Cell.

Xiao has also contributed to the scientific community by serving on grant review committees for NCIC, CIHR, and the International Union Against Cancer.

He began this remarkable research career by earning a B.Sc. from Nanjing Agricultural University in China, a M.Sc. from the University of Toronto, and a Ph.D. from the University of Saskatchewan. Following his Ph.D., he served as a research fellow at Harvard University's School of Public Health.

Xiao has helped young scholars find similar academic success by supervising 19 post-graduate theses and a number of postdoctoral fellows.

As both a researcher and teaching professor, he has also guided many undergraduates toward research careers, including more than 25 summer students. His expert guidance was recognized by these same students when the College of Medicine Graduate Student Society gave him the Supervisor of the Year Award in 2007.

Master Teacher Award

BALJIT SINGH

Professor Baljit Singh is a most deserving recipient of the Master Teacher Award at the University of Saskatchewan. During a relatively short period of time, Dr. Singh has achieved high acclaim related to teaching which is unparalleled. Many faculty require decades to develop and demonstrate leadership and excellence in teaching. In addition to numerous teaching awards including the Norden Distinguished Professor Award (2003), he has also been recognized internationally for his excellence in research and graduate student training. Dr. Singh clearly exemplifies the “Teacher – Scholar” model promoted by the University in a passionate, unselfish and enthusiastic manner.

Dr. Singh provides lectures in the subject area of anatomy. This fundamentally important discipline may lack the glamour and excitement of many clinically oriented courses, but Baljit has the unique ability to raise the profile of the subject material. His lectures have been described on repeated occasions as dynamic, full of enthusiasm, well organized, innovative, fantastic and challenging. He is totally concerned that students learn and understand. One colleague states, “he emphasizes understanding of concepts more than rote memorization and develops students’ life long learning skills.” One student wrote that “Dr. Singh has the elusive ability to explain complex pathophysiological processes in a simple straightforward manner.”

Outside the classroom, Dr. Baljit Singh provided leadership and mentorship to many students through his involvement in the “Faculty-in-Residence” program, which is now a nationally and internationally recognized student support program. Through this program University students, mostly first-year students, are provided insightful guidance and discussion forums on a variety of topics ranging from political, social to philosophical themes. One colleague indicated that “he sees the students’ experience on a holistic level with academics being important, but only a segment of the whole.” His personable style with an infectious enthusiastic demeanor greatly encourages student participation.

Dr. Singh has championed many educational initiatives in recent years. He enabled the Western College of Veterinary Medicine to be the first Canadian university to participate in the Merck Veterinary Scholars Program, a summer research and learning experience. He provided leadership in the Department of Veterinary Biomedical Sciences during the recent curriculum review. He led and coordinated the development of an innovative “Biomedical Rounds” for first year students which integrated concepts from the basic sciences of anatomy, histology, embryology, physiology and biochemistry. Internationally, he has provided leadership in teaching of anatomical sciences as President of the American Association of Veterinary Anatomists.

Baljit Singh is distinctly a gifted teacher. His personable and enthusiastic style has inspired many students from a diversity of perspectives. The impact of his teaching will influence the pathways of both students and colleagues for many years. He leads by example, not only academically, but also in every aspect of daily life.

Award for Distinction in Outreach and Engagement

DR. HENRY CLASSEN

Dr. Henry Classen's contributions to outreach and engagement were evident from his first days as a new faculty member nearly 30 years ago. Since his appointment, Dr. Classen has demonstrated outstanding and sustained effort through activities and programs on poultry management and nutrition designed to inform and involve external publics and partnerships about the core missions of the University of Saskatchewan.

Dr. Classen is an alumnus of the University of Saskatchewan and Professor and Head of the Department of Animal and Poultry Science in the College of Agriculture and Bioresources. His outreach and engagement accomplishments include numerous collaborations across disciplines, work with other universities and partnerships beyond the borders of the campus. The collaborations include working with engineers, animal species specialists, pathologists, medical doctors, plant scientists and physiologists. For over 25 years, he has developed relationships with individual producers, boards and processing plants through the University Poultry Extension Service, described as unique in Canada. He holds eight patents granted and his involvement with the University of Saskatchewan Poultry Centre speaks to his strong research interests and his commitment to sustainability and economic development.

He has served as President of the Poultry Science Association, an international scientific association, and President of the Canadian Branch of the World's Poultry Science Association. In 2007, Dr. Classen was awarded the Poultry Science Association Fellow. He has received accolades and awards including the American Feed Industry Association Nutrition Research Award in 1993, the Alberta Poultry Serviceman of the Year Award in 1994 and was part of a team that received the Saskatchewan Award of Innovation in 2005. His commitment to teaching is evidenced by a group of graduate students who wrote in support of Dr. Classen that he "provides an atmosphere for his students that is powerful, stimulating and intellectually based" and the fact that he has received the College of Agriculture & Bioresources Professor of the Year award twice.

The industry has such great respect for his work that he has been asked to develop protocols and to conduct research to address industry-wide concerns. He has served on award and scholarship selection committees and a variety of boards and councils. One supporter wrote that Professor Classen "epitomizes the very best of how a university professor can seamlessly integrate the scholarship of teaching, learning, discovery, knowledge translation, outreach, professional practice, and leadership. All of his work is characterized by its interdisciplinary nature and by the strong connections that are sustained between the University and communities and businesses that make up the poultry industry."

President's Service Award

LYNN GUINA

Special food venues in the Bowl, University ambassadors and a VIP golf cart transportation service were just some of Lynn Guina's ideas that came to fruition during Congress 2007 at the University of Saskatchewan, and just three examples of the commitment and dedication to her job that earned her this year's President's Service Award.

As Director of Hospitality Services at the University, and throughout her more than 20 years with the institution, Lynn has consistently demonstrated the kind of 'can do' attitude that motivates and inspires others, and brings positive recognition to the University of Saskatchewan. Whether she is overseeing the visit of a single VIP to campus or managing the logistics of the country's largest gathering of academics, Lynn always sees the big picture while keeping tabs on the smallest details. It is always about service.

For those who supported Lynn's nomination for this award, two events stand out as epitomizing her work ethic and value to the University of Saskatchewan. By pulling together a dynamic and cohesive team to handle logistics for Congress 2007, Lynn ensured campus was a welcoming and accommodating venue for some 6,000 delegates from across the country. Her diligent preparation along with her nimble and innovative approach to problem solving made Congress a success for both the participants and the University.

Nominators also talked at length about her total devotion to meeting the housing and food needs of northern Saskatchewan residents evacuated to campus because of forest fires in 2006. Working virtually around the clock, Lynn demonstrated what the term "service" means at the University of Saskatchewan.

Raised on a dairy farm near Radisson, Lynn was involved in 4-H and a number of high school activities before she moved to Saskatoon to study dietetics. She began her career at the University in Food Services and has served in a number of capacities, including acting manager of the Faculty Club and Conference and Catering Manager, before taking over management of Hospitality Services.

In her work, Lynn pays particular attention to the needs of students. In partnerships with the Student and Enrolment Services Division, she initiated the practice of hiring only U of S students for summer jobs at Congress and this year, worked on a marketing project with third-year commerce students.

The list of Lynn's volunteer commitments at the local, provincial and national level is long. It includes membership on organizing committees for major events like the Special Olympics, Jeux Canada Summer Games and the CIS Vanier Cup as well as the presidency of the Canadian University and Colleges Conference Officers Association.

In all that she does, Lynn Guina maintains the highest possible standards, and her sense of humour. It is an approach that has earned her not only the President's Service Award but also the moniker "service hero" of the University of Saskatchewan.

Governor General's Academic Medals

These medals are awarded to the undergraduate student and graduate student with the highest academic standing.

Gold Medal

IVAN KHALZOV

Ivan Khalzov was born in Borisoglebsk, Russia in 1980. He graduated with a Master of Science Degree in Applied Mathematics and Physics from Moscow Institute of Physics and Technology, Russia in 2003. In 2004, Ivan started his Ph.D. research in the Department of Physics and Engineering Physics at the University of Saskatchewan. He was the recipient of the University of Saskatchewan Graduate Scholarship, Herzberg Memorial Scholarship and Rowles Fellowship. Ivan completed his Doctor of Philosophy degree in 2008.

Ivan's thesis research is devoted to the theoretical study of magnetohydrodynamic flows—the flows of liquid metals or plasmas in the presence of a magnetic field.

Such flows in annular channels are currently of great interest due to the experimental investigation of the so-called magnetorotational instability, which plays an important role in astrophysical applications. The results obtained by Ivan can now be used to optimize the design of magnetorotational instability experiments and to explain the experimental data. They may also be useful in fundamental astrophysical studies.

Currently Ivan is a research associate at the Center for Magnetic Self-Organization in Laboratory and Astrophysical Plasmas, University of Wisconsin, Madison. He continues his career as a physicist, exploring different phenomena in magnetized plasmas.

Silver Medal

DANIELLE LOUISE ANDERSON

Danielle grew up in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. She graduates with a Bachelor of Science Honours Degree with High Honours in Physics. Ms. Anderson is also the recipient of the Earl of Bessborough Prize which is awarded to the most distinguished graduate in the Natural Sciences in the College of Arts and Science.

Danielle has excelled academically and has been awarded numerous scholarships and awards during her academic career to date, including the Chancellor's Scholarship, the Sylvia Fedoruk Scholarship, the B.W. Currie Memorial Undergraduate Scholarship a NSERC Undergraduate Scholarship Research Award and a NSERC Canada Graduate Scholarship. She has achieved recognition on the Dean's List all four years of her undergraduate program.

Ms. Anderson has worked in various science-oriented positions such as a Science Ambassador in The Pas, Manitoba and a science outreach research project with the University of Saskatchewan. Danielle has also planned and conducted science experiments and activities with Kindergarten to Grade 9 students at various schools in The Pas, Manitoba. She has also worked as a Linear Accelerator Operator at the Canadian Light Source Inc.
