

Spring 2021

We are in an unprecedented time, but that does not overshadow the achievements of the graduating class of 2021. Due to the ongoing pandemic, the 2021 Spring Convocation was not held in person. Instead, virtual graduation celebrations were live-streamed from May 28 to June 4.

In lieu of a graduation program, the following information is the official list of class of 2021 graduates.

BRYAN HARVEY

Honorary Doctor of Science

A world-renowned barley breeder, Dr. Bryan Harvey (PhD) spent four decades contributing to the field of plant science and to the Canadian agriculture economy through his work with the Crop Development Centre (CDC) at the University of Saskatchewan (USask).

During his time at USask starting in 1966 until his retirement in 2005, Harvey bred or co-bred more than 60 varieties of barley, leading pioneering research that benefitted the brewing industry in North America, Latin America, Asia and South Africa. His work contributed significantly to Canada's leading role in world malting barley exports and resulted in hundreds of millions of dollars in trade each year. Two of his barley varieties, Harrington and CDC Copeland, earned Seed of the Year honours in 2009 and 2019, highlighting their importance in the seed industry and to crop production in Canada.

The highly regarded professor emeritus also served as assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, director of the CDC and chair of the Department of Horticulture Science. Harvey later moved into the Office of the Vice-President Research at USask, serving as co-ordinator of agriculture research, acting vice-president research, and special advisor to the VP-research. Harvey was also the author of eight books and book chapters on cultivar development, and close to 50 refereed journal publications during his prolific career.

Harvey's efforts earned him multiple awards and accolades, including being appointed to the Order of Canada in 2007, recognizing his lifetime of outstanding achievement, dedication to the community, and service to the nation. He was inducted into the Canadian Agricultural Hall of Fame in 2020, and was one of only 57 Saskatchewan residents to receive the Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Medal in 2012, awarded in recognition of significant contributions to Canada.

Harvey was inducted into the Saskatchewan Agriculture Hall of Fame in 2006, and received the Saskatchewan Order of Merit in 2005. He earned honorary lifetime memberships from the Saskatchewan, Alberta and Canadian Seed Growers Associations and the Saskatchewan Agricultural Graduates Association, and has received fellowships in the Agricultural Institute of Canada, the Crop Science Society of America, and the American Society of Agronomy.

Harvey earned an Alumni Achievement Award from the USask Alumni Association and an Outstanding Contribution to Industry Award from the Canadian Seed Trade Association and the Master Brewers Association. The Canadian Seed Growers Association presented Harvey with the Clark-Newman-Clayton Award for exceptional contribution to Canadian pedigreed seed production and he received the Presidential Award from the Crop Science Society of America.

ED RATUSHNY

Honorary Doctor of Laws

Professor Ed Ratushny was born and raised in Kamsack, Sask., in a vibrant community 20 minutes from the family cottage at Madge Lake. He describes his childhood as idyllic, playing high school football, curling and basketball, as well as for local senior hockey and baseball teams. He played saxophone in a dance band (including university summers) that covered his university expenses.

He received his Bachelor of Arts in 1964 and law degree in 1965 at the University of Saskatchewan. He articulated and briefly practised law in Saskatoon before pursuing graduate studies and his lifetime career as a professor.

In some respects, his career has been unique in its diversity, but always had the common pattern of extending academic research, writing and expertise beyond the classroom and journals, to provide expert advice and guidance to a broad range of public institutions. He became a trusted advisor to public servants, administrative tribunals, cabinet ministers and Chief Justices from across Canada. In turn, these symbiotic relationships imported broader experience and deeper understanding into Ratushny's classrooms and his related academic writing.

When his USask College of Law Dean, Otto Lang, became Canadian Minister of Justice, he saw the void of any rational process or support structure for assessing the suitability of potential judicial appointees. He created the position of Special Judicial Advisor to the Justice Minister and appointed Ratushny to a role that continues in Canadian government today.

In 1990, the Canadian Judicial Council retained him regarding the questionable conduct of appellate judges in the matter of the wrongful conviction of Donald Marshall Jr., and Ratushny continued to serve as advisor and counsel regarding federal judicial conduct for more than 25 years. His book on Self-Incrimination has been cited frequently by the Supreme Court of Canada and his award-winning book on Public Inquiries appears frequently in commission reports.

He established one of Canada's first courses on sports law and has acted frequently as an arbitrator in amateur sports issues such as doping. He has contributed significantly to women's hockey development and is a certified NHL hockey agent, and was retained by the NHLPA during its transition from the Alan Eagleson regime.

His professional achievements have been recognized by the Order of Canada, the Order of Ontario, an honorary doctorate from the Ontario Law Society and a variety of other prestigious awards. He has also been the Canadian representative in legal events throughout the world.

MARIA CAMPBELL

Honorary Doctor of Letters

She is a celebrated award-winning Métis author, playwright and filmmaker but first and foremost, Elder Maria Campbell prefers to be known as a community worker.

A dedicated volunteer, activist and advocate for Indigenous rights and the rights of women and children for more than 40 years, Campbell opened doors for Métis writers when she authored her best-selling autobiography, Half-breed, in 1973. She has since written eight books and dozens of stage plays, including Flight, the first all-Indigenous theatre production in Canadian history and Jessica, co-written with Linda Griffiths, which won the Floyd S. Chalmers Award for best new Canadian play and the Dora Mavor Moore Award for Outstanding New Play. She has also been inducted into the Saskatchewan Theatre Hall of Fame.

An inspiration for Indigenous writers across the country, award-winning author, poet and playwright Daniel David Moses has referred to Campbell as “the mother of us all.”

Campbell’s contributions to community and culture have earned her multiple major awards and accolades, including being made an Officer of the Order of Canada in 2008, receiving the Distinguished Canadian Award in 2006, named to the Saskatchewan Order of Merit in 2005, and selected for a National Aboriginal Achievement Award in 1995. In 2012 she received the Pierre Elliott Trudeau Foundation Fellowship, and in May of this year was awarded the Saskatchewan Lieutenant Governor’s Lifetime Achievement Award in the Arts.

For the past 30 years, Campbell has been a mentor for young people, including University of Saskatchewan (USask) students. She is currently the cultural advisor at USask’s College of Law and at Athabasca World University. Previously, Campbell was an Indigenous scholar and writer in residence at USask, where she was also a lecturer for seven years and an assistant professor for 10 years in the College of Arts and Science.

Campbell, born in Prince Albert National Park, celebrated her 81st birthday on April 26. She spends her summers at the old Dumont homestead in Batoche, on the banks of the South Saskatchewan River. Campbell speaks three Indigenous languages—Cree, Michif and Saulteaux—and has had her books translated into German, Chinese, French, Italian, Spanish and Catalan. She serves as an Elder on the Saskatchewan Aboriginal Justice Commission, and is a founding member of the Grandmothers for Justice Society, a group of Indigenous grandmothers who brought attention to and advocated for an inquiry into the freezing deaths of Indigenous men in Saskatchewan.

THAT NGO

Honorary Doctor of Science

Studying abroad at the University of Saskatchewan (USask) changed everything for Dr. That Ngo (PhD), whose decision to leave Indonesia in the 1960s opened up a whole new world of opportunity.

Barred from applying to state schools back home in Indonesia by the Suharto regime military dictatorship, Ngo headed overseas to Saskatoon where he would graduate with honours in 1970 and earn his PhD in biochemistry in 1974 at USask. Ngo went on to become a celebrated biochemist, researcher scientist and innovator, serving as president and CEO of a number of companies in Canada, the United States and China, including firms that he founded. Ngo published more than 140 researcher articles, edited seven books, and went on to hold 14 different industry patents.

Ngo was the co-inventor of the Ngo-Lenhoff Assay, a groundbreaking technological procedure that benefits diabetes patients worldwide. The development led to the home-based OneTouch blood glucose test that became the industry standard and is still used by diabetes patients to this day.

Ngo went on to earn numerous awards and honours, including being named a fellow of the American Institute of Chemistry, the National Academy of Clinical Biochemistry, and the Royal Australian Chemical Institute, as well as earning the Society of Chemical Industry Merit Award. Ngo was named a member of the American Association of Clinical Chemistry, and earned the 1992 Most Innovative Biotechnology Product award by the University of California-San Diego.

In 2016, he was selected one of the College of Arts and Science’s Alumni of Influence, and in 2020 received the Honoured Supporter Award from the Saskatoon chapter of the Association of Fundraising Professors. A popular guest speaker, Ngo has delivered numerous national and international lectures.

Now retired and living in California, Ngo continues to open doors for other enterprising students after establishing the That Ngo Fund for Study Abroad in the College of Arts and Science. Ngo’s endowed fund provides financial support for USask students who want to have the chance to experience international learning opportunities, as he did 55 years ago.

Ngo has also become a prolific writer of poetry, newspaper articles and four cookbooks, in addition to authoring his 2013 memoir titled Chinese-Indonesia: An Odyssey through Racism, Ethnicity and Science. The autobiography is his deeply personal account of leaving his home in Indonesia in search of new opportunity in Canada, and finding his future at USask.

TREVOR HERRIOT

Honorary Doctor of Letters

An award-winning writer, social justice activist and influential naturalist from Regina, Trevor Herriot is passionate about protecting Canadian grasslands and prairie habitats for future generations.

Herriot earned a bachelor's degree with honours in English from the University of Saskatchewan (USask) in 1979, and was celebrated in 2018 as a distinguished alumnus of St. Thomas More College at USask. A celebrated author, he has received multiple awards, including the prestigious Cheryl and Henry Kloppenburg Award for Literary Excellence in 2017 for his body of acclaimed literary work. His first book, River in a Dry Land: A Prairie Passage earned the Saskatchewan Book of the Year Award and several national honours, in addition to being nominated for the Governor General's Award for Non-Fiction.

One of the province's most distinctive literary voices, Herriot has written six books, and has had several essays and articles published in the likes of the Globe and Mail and Canadian Geographic magazine, as well as in several anthologies. He has produced radio documentaries for the CBC, is a regular guest on media broadcasts, and has appeared in and consulted on video/film documentaries including The Nature of Things with David Suzuki.

Herriot has taught creative writing courses at St. Peter's College, led workshops at the Banff Centre, and has served as writer-in-residence at the Roderick Haig-Brown House on Vancouver Island and at the Regina Public Library. He is a popular lecturer and speaker, delivering keynote addresses on environmental and cultural topics. A passionate prairie conservationist, The Walrus describes Herriot as "the pre-eminent prairie naturalist of his generation."

As a writer of European heritage, Herriot has made it his life's work to discover what it means to be a settler in a place where the land and its Indigenous people continue to suffer under persistent colonialism and racism. He advocates for Indigenous voices to take a central place in all conversations about land use and protection, and is a member of the Treaty Land Sharing Network, a group of settler land stewards beginning the crucial work of honouring the treaties. In his writing and work with Indigenous activists to protect Crown land, he defers to those with experiential and community knowledge, such as Elder Norman Fleury of USask's College of Education, whose voice is heard throughout Herriot's fifth book, Towards a Prairie Atonement, telling the story of Ste. Madeleine, a Métis community forced off the land in the 1930s.
